Description

Hi,

I've tried this a number of times now and have unsuccessfully upgraded to 3.12 from 3.11.1 because puppetserver can not start up after upgrade.

I revert snapshot each time and try again, a different approach, with the same result.

Basically, I have the versions shown in the attachment.

When I try to upgrade, I get the issue defined here:

<https://community.theforeman.org/t/installation-nightly-builds-fail-to-install/13899>

When I revert the snapshot, I remove the puppet software:

1. rpm -qa puppet*
   puppetserver-2.8.1-1.el7.noarch puppet-foreman_scap_client-0.3.19-1.el7.noarch puppetlabs-release-pc1-1.1.0-5.el7.noarch puppet-agent-1.10.14-1.el7.x86_64
   puppet-agent-oauth-0.5.1-3.el7.noarch
   puppetlabs-stdlib-4.25.1-1.el7.noarch
```

rpm -e --nodeps puppet-agent.x86_64 puppet-agent-oauth.noarch puppet-foreman_scap_client.noarch puppetlabs-release-pc1.noarch puppetserver.noarch

and install the new puppet release and puppet server:

yum -y install http://yum.puppetlabs.com/puppet6-release-el-7.noarch.rpm

```
yum -y install puppet-agent puppet-agent-oauth puppet-foreman_scap_client puppetserver

I start puppet via:

systemctl start puppetserver

and it works.

I then go through the regular update process:

<https://theforeman.org/plugins/katello/3.12/upgrade/index.html>

and when running:

foreman-installer --scenario katello --upgrade

it fails and the reason it fails, it can't start the puppet server.

I then revert the snapshot again.

Please advise how this can be fixed. Thank you.

This is mostly a documentation bug. Puppet 4 (PC1 collection) is EOL and no longer supported. We may still have a few places where we mention Puppet 4 or don't explicitly mention we dropped Puppet 4.

Hi. I'm currently stuck on the older version of Katello because I can't upgrade (due to this problem).

What am I supposed to do?

Thanks.

<https://community.theforeman.org/c/support> is typically more suited for support. There are various threads about upgrading Puppet.
