Description

In the lead up to the release of Foreman 3.0, I want to make preparations so that docs.theforeman.org becomes the main space for Foreman and Katello community documentation.

To do this, there are a number of items that need to be completed, many of which are in progress:

1. Ensure parity of doc coverage <https://community.theforeman.org/t/foreman-manual-reboot/22606> - this is a work in progress that I will prioritise now
2. Ensure proper handling of release notes: <https://github.com/theforeman/foreman-documentation/pull/618>
3. Ensure that the Foreman website and infrastructure points to the new locations, for example: <https://community.theforeman.org/t/katello-org-pointing-at-old-katello-docs/24506> among others.

Feel free to add comments with other considerations. I will as I learn of them.

We would also need to update the documentation links from inside the foreman application that currently point to the old manual.
